From the Editor

Here we are, 2019. Winter is long, and I for one, am ready to see all my friends. Some things you want to get on top of right away is checking to see if you can get a spot at Champoeg for the weekend of April 25. Low-Key, laid-back, no-host. The registration for the Gorge Gathering is available now. Up to four nights of camping for $75.00, and a heated building? Yes please. The South Seattle Plate Lick is next weekend, and the Oregon Plate Lick is also coming up, so start marking your calendar.

Crawls seem to be catching on. There are two this year, one after the Shasta Gathering, covering the redwoods, and the Sip and Soak Crawl planned for the first weeks of September. More details on both of those in this issue.

The Farm Gathering is in Kalispell Montana this year, so if crossing the boarder into Canada is not your thing, you have options. "But Montana is SO FAR" you say? Travel time from Portland to Kalispell only two hours longer than to last year's Farm Gathering location.

Remember to take notes this year as your travel, your fellow TOWLine readers are interested in your travels.

It's a Wonderful Life; Simple, Modest, Just Right

By Sally Hollister

I'm one of those folks who doesn't join groups but who loves vicariously enjoying teardropping through your marvelous Towline. In order not to feel like a total taker, I want to share a short account of a delightful trip I took with my Tilly, The Teardrop Trailer, and my dog Skye, The Wonderful Westie. I made plans to meet my cousin Larry on June 19 at two o'clock in Sekiu, our destination, the campground at Lake Ozette.

TOW Line

TEARDROPPERS OF OREGON AND WASHINGTON

Serving those who are or wannabe teardroppers.

First, as everyone who ever tows a teardrop knows, these little vehicles just travel along behind like well-trained puppy dogs, neither swaying nor dragging. They just cooperate. I was grateful for that quality in Tilly, as the traffic was in its usual state of awfulness as I left Issaquah on I-90 and then 405 and 520. Awful! I was in a tizzy, but was Tilly? Not at all. She just negotiated the traffic like a champ, and we drove right onto the 10:30 ferry at Edmonds. From Kingston on traffic was negligible, so the drive north and west was delightful through the evergreen forests and along various waterways. At Port Angeles we stopped and asked directions to Sekiu, just to confirm we were in the right neighborhood. The lady confidently said to watch for the sign for Hwy 112, and that's what we did.

May I just interject here – Highway 112 is not the best route for getting to that corner of Washington. A better and much more scenic route is to go somewhat further on Highway 101 and catch 113 north. Much less curvy, much prettier as it meanders along beautiful Lake Crescent and through the woods, and generally just better.

Well, after covering some of the curviest country I've ever negotiated in a car or otherwise, we did pull into Sekiu and joined up with Cousin Larry and his Westie Tilt. It was two o'clock. Half an hour later we pulled our two rigs into the campground at Lake Ozette. Lovely! Larry found a comfortable spot for his SUV, and I backed Tilly into her companionable spot nearby, our camp site was right by the lake! It was perfect. My dear cousin had remembered that the previous day had been my birthday, so his first order of business was to bring out a bouquet of balloons with appropriate greetings along with table decorations, gifts, and even a personalized tiny cake.

Again, as all teardroppers know, once you've backed your trailer into its place, you are home. So, it was only a matter of putting a cloth on the table for us to claim pride of place. Everything we needed was at our beck and call right there in Tilly's well-appointed galley. After a delicious pork chop and taters dinner prepared by "the cuz," we four settled in by our campfire and visited until the stars came out. After that long drive, however, we were all feeling kind of snoozy, so Skye and I crept into our cozy bunk in Tilly and Larry and Tilt snuggled into their rig for a good night's sleep.

Next morning my clever cousin brought out the makings for breakfast, all prepared and cooked in cast iron "Pie Irons," the most wonderful gadgets for campers, particularly creative campers. Does everyone besides me know about these marvelous tools? Well, breakfast that morning was a fabulous concoction of the ingredients Larry had provided – bacon on the outside and a sort of French toast affair inside. Delicious! If you don't already have these, you really should go right out and buy a couple.

We took a nice drive that morning, learning too late that dogs are not allowed on the boardwalk trails out to the beach, Cougars being the only explanation we needed. Then it was lunchtime and another pie iron project, this time Reuben sandwiches. I've never enjoyed better Reubens.

Well, my tale could go on and on, but Skye has just stopped by to say it is time for our afternoon walk. I'll just end here with these final words of thanks to the Towline for passing along two important pieces of information I've needed this summer. One was to have one's teardrop's wheels and bearings checked and greased. Tilly's were nigh on to "dry." The man at the shop showed me how to check them myself, and I shall from now on. The second information note was concerning the beautiful campground down in south-central Washington on the road to White Pass, Iron Creek campground. Wonderful folks, plenty of sites, beautiful.

I'm looking forward to more editions of Towline as Skye and Tilly and I journey about, solitary except for the company of friends and occasional grandchild. It's a wonderful life; simple, modest, just right.

What a Wonderful Place - PowerLand

By Marty Boehme

For those who have missed an opportunity to visit Powerland Heritage Park during its annual two-weekend Steam-Up, you have missed an experience to see what things were like during your great-grandparent's life. The park was created in the early 1970's and is located about eight miles north of Salem, OR.

The TOW campout that's always held the first weekend of August have us camping on a very lush green lawn. It's dry camping with electrical hookups using you own extension cords. It only costs $15 per night. Let's review what you will see – especially when entering one of the 14 vintage-style museums that dot the landscape.

First, our camping host is the Northwest Vintage Car and Motorcycle Museum. Their display building contains many of their member's cars and motorcycles; each with a placard describing the antique features of the items. Across the alley is the museum's speedster shop where you will see the Ford model T's high school students are building.

If you've ever wondered how lumber is made, there is stadium-seating where you can witness logs being cut by a steam-driving BIG circular saw. This mill helped build our USA homes and businesses in pioneer times.

The Northwest Truck Museum is one of the biggest vintage and antique truck collections in the country. Of special interest for the ladies is a large room where all sorts of fabric workings are demonstrated. One is wowed by the many quilts on display – some for sale. This is definitely not a "walk-through" sight!

Of special historical interest is the Wolf Iron Works that made drag-saws use to cut firewood before chain-saws were invented. Here you will see the all sorts of machines driven by the very first mass-production method where a single shaft that's suspended in the shop's ceiling was driven by a waterwheel or steam-engine. The shaft runs the length of the shop and has pulleys with wide belts that reach down to drive floor mounted lathes, drill presses, saws and other machine tools. This drag saw museum was rescued from an abandoned Portland business that was about to be torn down. Again, history has been rescued for us to marvel.

For those of us adults, it's a thrill to ride the Willow Creek Railroad. This one-eighth scale railroad is free to ride but depends on donations to operate. The ride lasts about 12 minutes as it runs through a modeled countryside.

Another ride you'd enjoy is the vintage trolley that runs around the perimeter of Powerland. It's a double-decker where you get a glimpse of all the activity going on everywhere from the top deck.

One building you enter has behemoth steam engines running during the Steam-Up weekend. These engines are as big as a small house and are attended by their hobbyist owners who are seen getting them started and running.

Your two-day campout can't be complete until you've attended the "Parade of Power". The spectator's bleachers are shaded by a row of tall trees that offer a cooler place to sit on those hot August days. Here you'll witness the most complete collection of vintage tractors as they crawl past for review. The steam driven ones have been rescued from pioneer-era farms and ranches.

A demonstration of vintage harvesting equipment happens once a day. Seen are threshing machines and hay balers used in pioneer times. These are stationary machines being driven by steam tractors using very l-o-n-g wide belts.

For you bargain hunters, be sure to visit the many stalls of the Swap-Meet. The area contains over a hundred vendors – one of which might be selling a treasure you might be looking for.

The Steam-Up opens every weekend day with the playing of our National Anthem sung by a voice chosen for this special honor.

It turns out that us teardrop and TTT trailer folks are part of the show. Usually, by the time of the 9:00 AM opening ceremonies, we have spectators roaming around asking all sorts of questions about our trailers. All campers get it free when showing up on the weekend Friday. You will get a program with map as well as a daily schedule. Our host Dan Fuger will furnish the Saturday evening supper with grilled burgers, all the fixings as well as other items of your potluck offerings – it's a complete meal. Stay tuned for the list of TOW camping events and look for the Powerland Campout registration. It's always the first weekend of August.

The Frist Annual Graffiti Gathering and Trailer Rally

By Ray Perry

The first annual Graffiti Gathering and Trailer Rally was a great hit with both those who attended as well as the folks who stopped by to admire our tiny homes on wheels. The event was held during the Graffiti Weekend which is the premier car show event in the Pacific Northwest located in Roseburg, Oregon. This regional event began in 1982, and with each successive year, Graffiti Weekend has grown to attract visitors and car enthusiasts in neighboring states such as Washington, Idaho, California, and beyond! The Graffiti Gathering was a fresh new addition to the event.

The week started on Wednesday when the trailers started arriving. After picking up their packages which included information provided by the local chamber of commerce, maps of the area and a full schedule of events for both the Graffiti Gathering and the Graffiti Weekend. Also included was a dash plaque and a Vintage Trailer Magazine. After setting up and settling in we pulled down the outdoor movie screen and watched the Long long trailer with Lucile Ball and Desi Arnez. Each evening as things were settling down, we had a firepit available and showed a movie. Popcorn was provided most nights. We watched the American Graffiti movies as well as Cars.

Thursday started bright and early with a pot of coffee and a breakfast of pancakes, sausage and scrambled eggs, hash browns with orange juice. Breakfast was also served on Friday and Saturday. Those who needed to shower were pleasantly surprised with the clean facilities at a local school within five minutes from the site. That evening we had a Bar-B-Q of hamburgers and all the fixings with a soda or water and chips. Between a potluck and a chili feed the other evenings, we didn't go hungry.

There was plenty to do during the week including heading to town and watching all the classic cars drive by. Some went to the auction at the fairgrounds, downtown fund day while others attended or entered their classic vehicles into the Show n Shine on Saturday the other side of town which was limited to the first 600 cars. After our chili feed on Saturday we lined up and left for the cruise. This year, our group was invited to lead the cruise and we were able to drop off our trailers and continue to go around as much as our heart desired. We all had a great time and everyone who attended said they would definitely attend next year.

Jefferson State Chapter of TearJerkers is Rebooted

By Grant Whipp

Well, we're back, and we're excited! After a couple of years of the Chapter being in dormancy, Kay & I were asked if we'd be willing to take back the reins, again, and try to breathe new life into it ... so here we are, reprising our roles as Director and Co-Director, respectively! Don't be expecting any radical changes, just a return to the usual three-or-so laid-back, informal & fun campouts we did in the years past.

"Jefferson State" is the area of Far-northern California and Southern Oregon, and we have always welcomed folks associated with other camping groups, those non-affiliated, or simply from out of the area ...

following the TearJerker credo, all are welcome as long as you are imbued with the friendly camping spirit! Kicking this season off, though, is something kind of special, the 25th Anniversary of the Dam Gathering of the Tears, being held back at the campgrounds where it all started, Shasta Campgrounds near the base of Shasta Dam in Far-northern California ... the dates are May 3-5, 2019. Due to the size of the campground, we are limiting the number of trailers to around 30, so if you are interested in coming get in touch with Kay via the Chapter Facebook Page: Kay's Teardrop Friends Jefferson State Tearjerkers, Facebook Page or www.tearjerkers.net

Plans are in the works to include (for those who are interested) participation in the Shasta Damboree celebration's Saturday morning Parade, just like we did for the first several years. Many of the original attendees of the first three Gatherings, there, have been invited and are planning to be there, so there should be a lot of reminiscing and tall tales 'round the Saturday night campfire!

The next campout on the agenda, so far, is Mystic Mt. Shasta 4.0, beginning on August 15, 2019 ... join us as we make our annual pilgrimage for the Full Moon at the Panther Meadows parking lot near the top of this spectacular mountain! It will be dry camping boon docking at its finest, as there is no water or facilities of any kind, the closest bathrooms are 2.5 miles away, and it is most definitely "bring it in, take it out" ... but the rewards are the fabulous views and the camaraderie of the finest camping friends you'll find! Again, contact Kay on the Facebook page if interested.

At least a couple more campouts are being planned but have not been finalized, so keep an eye here, on the TOW-Line Events Page and the above-mentioned Facebook page, and if you don't "do" Facebook, you can always e-mail us at gnkwhipp@jett.net ...! We hope you join us, and we are looking forward to being with our many camping Friends (past, present, & yet-to-be-made) in the campgrounds and 'round the campfires this season, and for years to come!

Game

Glow in the dark bowling

What you need

- 10 water bottles
10 glow sticks in a variety of colors
Soccer ball
- Remove any labels from your water bottles. If water bottles are new and still contain water, pour out a little off the top to allow for the glow stick you'll be adding.
- Crack the glow sticks to activate them (according to package directions) and drop one glow stick in each bottle. Replace the lid on the bottle securely.
- Line bottles up like bowling pins. The back row should have 4 pins, the next row will have 3, next 2, and finally 1 at the front.
- To keep the game fair, especially if you have a range of ages playing, set a distance for each age group. Smaller children are allowed to stand closer to the pins while older kids that need more of a challenge should stand farther back.
- Glow in the Dark Bowling is a fun game that can be played year-round and will provide plenty of giggles and smiles.

What is a Dutch Raffle you ask? Aside from it being a great way to get rid of decent stuff you don't want anymore (remember if no one wins it YOU must take it home) it is a fun way to "bid" for things with your raffle tickets. You get raffle tickets for:

- Showing up
- Making your bed if the raffle team notices
- Paying early
- Walking around
- Telling a good joke
- Telling a bad joke

Everyone brings at least one thing that someone might want (again someone has to take it, or YOU take it home) in front of each item is a bag. The raffle tickets go in the bag, want something badly? More tickets. Don't want something don't put any tickets in that items' bag. On Saturday night, we will go through the bags and pull out a ticket for each item. It is fast and fun. Registration
